

Compliance policies

Compliance policies are put in place by companies to ensure the safety of employees, customers, and the general public. To send real-time alerts to employees, managers, and other stakeholders if there is a potential violation or deviation from established policies and procedures.

These are a set of rules and regulations that a company creates and enforces to ensure that it operates in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and ethical standards. The purpose of compliance policies is to help companies prevent legal and ethical violations, promote responsible conduct, and maintain their reputation and public trust. Some of these are No pictures and no mobile phones in certain areas etc. There are many events that could trigger an alert for non-adherence to a compliance policy. Here are a few use cases:

- No food or drinks
- No phone, text, pictures
- No Smoking zones
- No children/visitors
- Waste Management
- Energy Conservation
- Restricted Areas

